MANAGING UNDERGROUND SLUDGE THE EASY WAY

Brought to you by Technosub, Mudwizard is a simple and efficient system designed to easily clarify underground water, making way to lower operation costs and higher productivity.

MINING

The challenges in underground mining are tremendous: the company must deliver results, guarantee the safety of the work environment and make sure operations are cost-effective and efficient. Mudwizard plays a key role in mining operations by reducing maintenance downtime, while significantly improving the underground conditions. The solid concentrate becomes easy to manage and the clean water is recirculated back into the system. All of this with no need for extra hands.

TUNNELING

When building underground tunnels in urban environments, many variables must be considered. The projects must clip along promptly, be cost-efficient, and respect and abide by the environmental standards. Moreover, water management on construction sites must generate the smallest footprint. By significantly reducing the amount of mud transferred to the surface, diminishing transportation of waste outside of urban areas and also saving on water, Mudwizard is the perfect complement for civil engineers who are building today's world.

DRILLING

Nowadays, the industry trends towards cost-reductions and is making a move to be more energy-efficient. Drilling companies have to come up with solutions that drive productivity and reduce environmental impacts. Water is key in drilling and can be a challenge in remote or sensitive areas. Mudwizard allows for on-site water clarification treatment, making sure to use it as sparingly and as efficiently as possible, without compromising on drilling results.
